Is your organization prepared to answer questions like these?

Are you directing charitable resources towards proactive strategies that address key drivers of poor health in your communities?

Are you working to eliminate the root causes of preventable disease and subsequent health costs?

Have you used geographic information systems to identify and focus resources in areas where health disparities are concentrated?

Dr. Kevin Barnett, Dr.P.H., M.C.P., Senior Investigator for PHI and community benefit expert, will lead this strategic program and will be joined by a distinguished group of faculty.

Participating organizations should include one senior executive leader (i.e., CEO, CNO, CFO, CMO, or EVP) and at least three board members from individual hospitals and/or at the health system level.

All participants in the intensive will complete an organizational self-assessment and will identify areas of focus for potential innovations. Following the intensive, the project team will convene brief calls with senior leader/board member groups once every other month for one year to share the latest tools and research findings from the field. Groups will also share updates on issues, opportunities, challenges, and emerging lessons. The project team will support a collaborative learning process by hosting at least three Webinars that provide the opportunity for groups to share innovations and lessons with their colleagues.

Your community is counting on you.

At the conclusion of the collaborative retreat, participants will have acquired and applied a working knowledge of:

- The meaning and key elements of population health improvement.
- Innovative strategies to leverage the resources of hospitals through meaningful engagement of diverse communities.
- Strategies for alignment with other health sector stakeholders.
- Strategies for engagement of the community development sector and examination of possible returns on investment.
- Strategies for internal alignment of population health capacity building with community benefit functions/processes.
- The roles of governing boards and senior leadership in ensuring optimal quality in the management and oversight of population health initiatives.
